

The Truth About Lies

It's easy to blame misinformation on the Internet, media, or culture wars. But what if there's an underlying internal belief that's affecting how we receive the information in the first place?

Discussion Questions:

1. When it comes to what you see on the Internet or TV, how do you know what's true?
2. When someone approaches you with what you see as "misinformation," how do you typically respond?
3. What biases, or even weaknesses, make you vulnerable to believing misinformation? What makes you say that?
 - Is it a strong interest in culture or politics?
 - Is it your trying to attain your greatest desires?
 - Is it a willingness to do anything to live the way you want to live?
4. Who or what is your ultimate authority when it comes to these? Would the people closest to you agree with your answer? Why or why not?

Happiness • Hope • Peace • Security • Sexuality • Money • Business

5. How can your belief in God help filter misinformation?
-