

Week 2: Let's Get to Know Each Other

Many things affect how we see the world—family, experiences, education, race, and faith, to name a few. Our perspective can affect how we interact with and treat others. But as we lean in and get to know one another, our perspectives can change. Where there may have been a divide, we can find unity.

Discussion Questions

1. Who is someone from history that you would like to get to know? Why did you choose that person?
2. What things prevent people from knowing one another?
3. What has your experience been like getting to know someone from another race or culture?
4. Read John 4:3–9. In what ways did Jesus interact with someone who was outside of his culture? How might that translate to us?
5. Why is it important for followers of Jesus to get to know those who are different from them?
6. What can we do intentionally to build cross-cultural relationships?

We all move toward those who are like us. It's harder to move toward those who are not like us, but as we do, it will change how we see things. As you go through your day, what is one way you can lean in and try to see someone else's perspective?
