

BETTER

Better

Jeff Henderson

Scripture: Matthew 6:33; Ephesians 5:25–27

Overview

- Perfect—the concept is thrown around a lot.
- If we could get “perfect,” we would find happiness, or so the thought goes.
- Perfect is an illusion. But it’s one many of us still aim for.
- If we could get to the perfect weight, we would feel better about ourselves, etc.
- Trying to be perfect is a never-ending game . . . one you’ll never win.
- What if we decided to lay down the fight for perfect and choose a better way? A different mindset?
- What if we decided to aim for “better”? To be a better spouse, a better friend, a better man, a better woman, a better leader and boss, a better neighbor, a better employee.
- Unlike “perfect,” better is attainable.
- Better can move us forward in our lives, relationships, and careers.
- It all comes down to one overarching challenge from Jesus and a corresponding question.
- As we pursue this different mindset, we will quickly discover a powerful truth:

Better > Perfect
